Bell's Modernized AH-1S:
Suited for the best-suited.

When a man who wears one of these patches puts himself in a Bell AH-1S Cobra, he knows there's not a better combat-proven attack helicopter.

It's sleek: Easy to handle, agile enough for terrain flight. It's tough: Ballistic tolerance of components plus survivability features protect the aircraft and crew from numerous threat systems. It's versatile: TOW missile, 20mm cannon and 2.75 in. rockets plus sophisticated fire control increase the Cobra's fire power ability. It's the best-suited attack helicopter to engage targets on the modern, armor-intensive battlefield.

The Modernized AH-1S Cobra. Evolved to meet the changing nature of the threat. And Bell believes in providing the best for those who demand it.

For more information, write Ray Swindell, Director, U.S. Government Marketing, Bell Helicopter Textron Inc., Dept. 680, Box 482, Ft. Worth, Texas 76101.

CW4 Dave Nees joins Master Army Aviators at Ft. Hood

In a recent ceremony held in the offices of BG John C. Bahnsen, Jr., ADC of the 2d Armored Division at Ft. Hood, prior to his PCS to Korea, three other Master Army Aviators were on hand when CW4 Dave Nees was presented his Master Wings by BG Bahnsen.

Brother to Brother!

Over the years, this magazine has cited the many Father-Son combinations within Army Aviation; every rank of aviator from a LT. General on down to CWO, at one time or another, has had the name of his rated offspring published alongside of his own.

But Renata Fisher, the proud mother of WOC Walter (Skip) Fisher now at Ft. Rucker, indicated another of her sons, Harold, is an Air Traffic Controller there and, by coincidence, gave his brother, Skip, clearance to take off on his first solo.

The story doesn't end there, however. Skip and Harold are also the sons of CW3 Walter L. Fisher, Ret., of Benicia, CA, who just happens to be an Army Aviator himself, and an AAAA Charter Member as well.

Major Unit Safety Award Won by Hanchey Div. Unit

The Aeroscout Branch, Hanchey Division of the Aviation Center's Department of Flight Training at Ft. Rucker, received the prestigious Daedalian Foundation Army Aviation Safety Trophy for Aviation Training Bases at a July 13 Army Aviation Center Chapter—AAAA luncheon.

Holding the trophy, from left, are MAJ Robert K. Jorgensen, former Commander, Aeroscout Branch; BG Chris Divich, USAF guest speaker; CPT John M. Curran, current Aeroscout Branch Commander; and CPT Bruce G. McKenty, another former Branch commander. Divich is the Commandant of the Air Force ROTC, Maxwell AFB, AL.

AIR CREWS AND COMMANDERS HAD THIS TO SAY ABOUT HELLFIRE:

"Gives you a chance to shoot at the enemy at a standoff range, out of range of their defenses."

"Allows a field commander to increase weapon effectiveness."

"Travels much faster, further, and does a lot more damage."

"We have a night capability we didn't have before."

"Enables you to work more as a team with other helicopters. It's got a lot of capabilities."

"A superb missile and weapon."

"You can actually shoot two or three HELLFIRES in the time it takes to fire other anti-armor missiles."

"Versatility, reliability and fantastic accuracy."

HELLFIRE is the primary armament for the Army's AH-64 Apache, and is being integrated with the Marine Corps' Sea Cobra. And it's compatible with other U.S. and Allied helicopters and fixed wing aircraft. A ground-launched HELLFIRE system for light armored vehicles (LAVs) and high-mobility multi-purpose wheel vehicles (HMMWVs) will provide light divisions with a lethal capability against heavy armor never before available.

For full comments and who said them, write for a free copy of "HELLFIRE Missile System is a Big Hit." Communications Dept., Missile Systems Division, Defense Electronics Operations, Rockwell International, 1800 Satellite Blvd., Duluth, GA 30136.

Army gets first production CH-47D on-cost, on-time

NEARLY 5,000 military and civilian guests were in attendance on Boeing Vertol's suburban Philadelphia, Pa., flight ramp on May 20 to witness the on-cost, on schedule delivery of the first production CH-47D CHINOOK helicopter to the U.S. Army.

The attendees were welcomed by William P. Jones, the company's Director of Military Helicopter Programs. The CHINOOK was the first of 436 previously built A, B and C Models that Boeing Vertol is modernizing to CH-47D status during the next ten years.

An impressive ceremony

Many senior Army and Boeing Company personnel associated with the CH-47 Modernization Program were among the distinguished guests at the morning ceremonies. They included :

MG Story C. Stevens, Commanding General, USA AVRADCOM; MG Orlando E. Gonzales, Director of Development and Engineering, USA DARCOM; BG Ellis D. Parker, Army Aviation Officer, DA; and BG James M. Hesson, (then Deputy CG, TSARCOM.)

Also, COL Dewitt T. Irby, Jr., CH-47 Modernization Program Project Manager; COL Terry L. Gordy, USA, Ret., CH-47 Modernization PM during Nov. 1979-June 1981; COL James R. Brier, Commander, USA Plant Representative Office at Boeing Vertol.

Representing Boeing at the ceremonies were Clyde Skeen, Senior Vice President, Boeing Company; Joseph Mallen, President, Boeing Vertol Company; Mr. Jones; and Mr. Joe Wood, President, Boeing Vertol Local 1069, UAW.

Following the Star Spangled Banner by the Pennsville, N.J. School band, Bill Jones introduced the distinguished guests and spoke of the importance of commitments.

"Clyde Skeen and I shared this platform on March 6, 1979 at the rollout of the first prototype D-Model. Clyde made a commitment to return at the time of the delivery of the first production D-Model, giving us the guidance to keep the program on cost and on schedule. His presence here today confirms that all commitments have been met."

"A win for the taxpayer"

Jones then introduced Skeen who called the CH-47 Modernization Program "a win for the American taxpayer, the person who pays the bill," because the program met all of its cost schedule and technical targets. When he completed his remarks, Skeen presented the logbook of the first production CH-47D to General Stevens who accepted it on behalf of the Army.

In his acceptance speech, General Stevens called the CH-47 Modernization Program a "model program".

"This program has demonstrated to the military and civilian communities that a defense weapon system can be fielded on cost and on schedule and perform better than the design required. The CH-47 Modernization Program has successfully progressed from the concept phase, through R&D and now into production. The challenges have been many, but so have the accomplishments.

"The success of the helicopter and the dedication of the people behind it led to a "no-issue" ASARC with a recommendation by the Army to begin production. The Secretary of Defense Decision Memorandum which followed in October, 1980 gave the go ahead for production.

"Today, 19 months later, the first of many 'D' models is being accepted by the Army. This is an event of which the Enshrine your name forever on an individual brick in the AAAA Wall in the new Aviation Museum by making a modest 40-4-40 donation.

I would like to support the Army Aviation Museum Building Fund by donating $40 payable over four years in commemoration of Army Aviation's 40th Anniversary on June 6, 1982 . . $40 over 4 years for our 40th Anniversary.

With this "40-4-40" donation, please engrave my name on an individual building block that will become a part of the AAAA Wall in the new Museum*.

I understand that my personal contribution of $40 is tax-deductible, is to be made payable to the "Army Aviation Museum Foundation, Inc." and is to be mailed directly to the Foundation at Box H, Ft. Rucker, AL 36362.

PLEASE PRINT NAME_____

*You may wish to donate the full $40 now and have your "building block" be a part of the AAAA Porta-Wall that is being built in the current Museum and which will be moved later to the new museum building. Your personal donation will be acknowledged formally by the Army Aviation Museum Foundation, Inc.

Put yourself into the new Museum! Help build it by donating a brick engraved with your name!

WILL YOUR NAME BE ENSHRINED IN THE NEW MUSEUM AT THE HOME OF ARMY AVIATION?

The answer is YES — if you join your fellow members who enroll in the modest 40-4-40 Program developed by AAAA's Executive Board to help the Army Aviation Museum Foundation raise money to build the new Museum at Fort Rucker.

The Museum site was dedicated on the 5th of June during the celebration of the 40th birthday of Army Aviation at Fort Rucker. More than $500,000 have been raised for construction, and another $1,500,000 is needed.

HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN DO:

Pledge a tax-deductible donation of $40 that's payable over a period of 4 years in commemoration of the first 40 years of Army Aviation. . . this reads out as "$40 in 4 years for 40 years of Army Aviation".

On your $10-$40 donation, a metallic plate — symbolic of a building block, shaped and to be used like one, and handsomely engraved with your name — will be prepared and placed on a separate AAAA Wall in the Museum that is to be dedicated to those AAAA Members who participate in the "40-4-40" program.

HERE'S HOW YOU DO IT:

Just fill in the pledge form on the opposite page and send it with the first installment of $10 to the Army Aviation Museum Foundation. Make your three succeeding installments in minimums of $10 or, if you wish, skip the installment method and send the full donation of $40 right away.

PRESERVING OUR HERITAGE!

We are an association of professionals. A hallmark of professionalism is the preservation of one's professional heritage for the education and enjoyment of succeeding generations. Each of us has played a significant role in the creation of 40 years of Army Aviation tradition.

For these reasons the AAAA Executive Board felt you would want to participate in this individual effort to build a symbolic wall of the names of AAAA's museum donors.

I think you know that more than $80 million worth of irreplaceable aircraft and associated memorabilia are now stored in the open or in ancient wooden buildings which fall far short of providing adequate protection. The need, therefore, is urgent.

ENSHRINE YOUR NAME FOREVER IN THE NEW MUSEUM AT THE HOME OF ARMY AVIATION!

We certainly hope your engraved "building block" will be there for your family and friends, and thousands of others visiting the Museum each year, to see.

We join with the Army Aviation Museum Foundation in urging your participation and in thanking you for considering a modest donation. Yours for 40-4-40!

A totally integrated VOR/LOC/GS and 10-waypoint RNAV computer system, 252-channel TACAN system and a Slaved Horizontal Situation Indicator

It's time to break a military tradition.

Traditionally, you've always ordered mil spec avionics for all your aircraft.

But new mil spec avionics are expensive. And, the systems you're already operating may be obsolete as well.

Clearly, mil spec hardware may not be the most efficient way of equipping all your aircraft.

Especially those that won't even be operating in a mil spec environment.

It's time to break with the past and give these aircraft their avionics of the future.

Avionics by King Radio.

Commercial off-the-shelf avionics that meet all system requirements for military training and utility aircraft.

Digital systems with reduced size, weight and cost.

Avionics so cost effective, the U.S. Army selected them for its U-21 and U-8 transports. And the Navy for its TH-57A helicopters.

Technically advanced avionics. In a full line, from new VHF and HF/SSB communications equipment, to a totally integrated TACAN/RNAV system.

And the world's only commercial transponder with an emergency squawk capability.

The future of non-combat military avionics is in your hands. You've only to break with the past to get it into your aircraft. Write or call Dan Rodgers, Special Programs Department, King Radio Corporation, 400 North Rogers Road, Olathe, Kansas 66062. (800) 255-6243. Telex: WUD (0) 4-2299.

Many of our retired military readers, in not moving about from place to place in a retirement status, cannot place their corresponding addresses in the magazine's "PCS" columns periodically which only report changes. Hence, they lose contact with many of their old friends with whom they still wish to communicate. The once-a-year listing through the SPOOF Roster is a way to help.

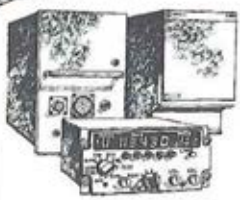
When you really need to "talk," talk to us about Collins HF communications.

Since 1933, when a Collins HF radio was used to communicate with the United States from Antarctica, the Collins name has been synonymous with HF: Collins, first to perfect single-sideband technology and the mechanical filter. Collins, first to introduce "automatic tuning." Collins, first again with the application of microprocessor technology to HF, making equipment simpler, more reliable and more economical.

Today, the Collins Telecommunications Products Division is the world's leading supplier of HF equipment, much of it for individuals and organizations just like yours. This means we can bring a wealth of experience to bear on your HF communications problems. Tactical, strategic, secure, commercial — we can do the complete job. Ours is a total HF capability.

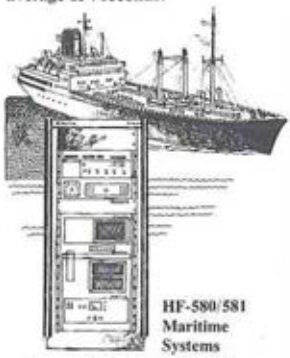
AN/ARC-190/728U Airborne Communications Systems

As the latest addition to the family of Collins airborne HF equipment, the all-solid-state AN/ARC-190/728U offers 400-watt peak and average output. Built-in microprocessor provides the control flexibility and speed needed to operate with scanning-selective call and remote frequency management systems. The companion 490A digitally tuned antenna coupler provides automatic antenna tuning in 1 second or less.



718U Communication Systems

A highly adaptive family featuring commonality of components and consisting of a convertible manpack/vehicular/base station system, a vehicular system, base station systems plus airborne systems. General characteristics include: Frequency range, 2 to 30 MHz in 100-Hz steps. Fully synthesized. Automatic tuning. Remotely controllable. Solid-state. Modular. 100 or 400 watts. All systems are easy to operate and can be tuned and ready to use in an average of 4 seconds.



HF-580/581 Maritime Systems

Fully synthesized, 1.6 to 30 MHz, 100-channel, front-panel programming with automatic tuning, ARQ and remote control make the new HF-580/581 Series ideal for reliable maritime operations. Both the 150-watt HF-580 and the 1000-watt HF-581 offer SSB/AM/CW/FSK modes.

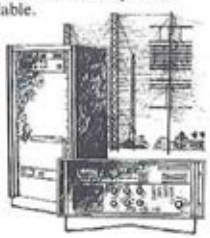
AN/PRC-515 HF Manpack Radio

A 20-watt packset that's small, lightweight and easy to operate, even while wearing gloves. Fully automatic antenna tuning. Low power consumption. Proven field performance. Arctic-desert-tropics use. 280,000 discrete channels. Large selection of options adapts it to field use, jeep and truck mounting, airborne and base station. 100- and 400-watt amplifiers available.



HF-80 Communication Systems

Anywhere communications setups are difficult, this family of systems gives you quality, performance and long-range HF radio capability in a range of products that can grow with your needs. It includes receivers, 1-, 3- and 10-kW transmitters, 1-, 3- and 10-kW transceivers — each capable of manual, FSK remote or computer remote control. Advantages include low-cost installation, low life cycle costs, high parts commonality and easy maintenance.

HF-280 Series Channelized Transceivers

Professional, long-range and cost-effective, an HF-280 Series Transceiver is a complete HF station in one unit. For mobile or fixed applications, the transceivers offer 125 watts output and operate from either AC primary power at 110/220 volts or 12-volt DC. Choose either 6 or 20 channels. Both offer built-in speaker with microphone, a full 1.6- to 30-MHz frequency range and programmable preset channels. Ideal for commercial and civil government needs.

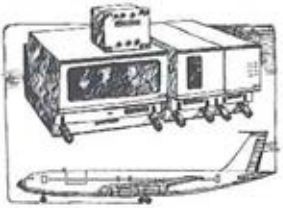
Collins KWM-380 and HF-380 Transceivers

The new Collins KWM-380 transceiver continues the Collins heritage for quality amateur equipment. A fully self-contained station, the KWM-380 offers built-in AC/DC power supply, speaker and internal split frequency VFO function. Fully synthesized, with microprocessor controlled tuning gives frequency stability in four tuning rates down to 10 Hz with no bandswitch.

The new HF-380* general coverage transceiver is for users authorized to transmit between 1.6 and 30 MHz.

HF Receivers

A series of general purpose radio receivers for manual or remote controlled systems. The 851S-1, the newest member of the receiver family, can be configured to meet specified customer requirements by selecting optional plug-in kits.



HF-121/122 Transceivers

High-performance HF transceivers optimized for tactical data applications. Complementary radios fill both shipboard/transportable requirements (HF-122, AN/URC-97) and airborne (HF-121, AN/ARC-512) with high reliability and module commonality. Operating features include remote control, rugged PA and selective HF receiver front-end filtering for collocated operation. They cover the 2- to 30-MHz range in 100-Hz synthesized steps in all standard voice and data ISB and SSB modes.

The right stuff.

Army Engineering Test Pilots

ARMY engineering test pilots constitute an important part of the aviation research and development team. Together with scientists, engineers, and technical analysts, they work to give the Army and its aviators an aircraft that is safe to fly and one that will meet the requirements of the Army mission.

The widely-accepted image of the dashing young man in an experimental flying machine laying his life on the line daily is no longer valid. Today's Army test pilot is a dedicated technical expert who functions as part of a highly specialized team that serves to accomplish the difficult and challenging task of testing and analyzing aircraft performance and flying qualities.

The engineering test pilot works as a member of a project team to determine specific test requirements, develop a test plan, and perform engineering flight tests under rigidly controlled conditions. After the test is completed, the test team analyzes acquired test data and prepares a technical report.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

MAJ Benson, a 1968 USMA graduate and 1979 USNTPS graduate, serves as AEFA's Chief of Plans & Programs. CW4 Adkins is presently attending the Naval Test Pilot School (Class 83).

Specifically, the test pilot bridges the gap for the engineer between the actual aircraft performance and the recorded technical data. We thought you might be interested in knowing the details on how one becomes an Army Test Pilot and this article has been generated to provide those details.

What are the prerequisites?

DA Circular 351-83 states the prerequisites for applying to the engineering test pilot program. Army Aviators in the grade of major and below may apply for the program. While grade criteria may be waived, the following prerequisites are less flexible:

- Must be a rated Army Aviator on active duty and in Aviation Service Specialty Code (SC) 15, 67J, 71 or military occupational specialty (MOS) 100 series.
- Must be rotary wing rated with a minimum of 1,500 hours military flying time. A fixed wing rating is desirable. If dual rated, 500 hours must be in rotary wing aircraft.
- Aircraft qualification requirements include (but are not limited to) UH-1, OH-58, and AH-1. Aircraft qualifications may be waived.

RIGHT: An aerial view of the US Army Engineering Flight Activity facilities

- Must possess a current instrument rating.
- Must be a competent swimmer.
- Must have completed college algebra, physics, and calculus with above average grades. A college degree in en-gineering is desirable but not required.

How is selection handled?

Selection of Army Aviators for participation in the program is made by an Officer Personnel Management Directorate (OPMD) board. Representatives of the Aviation Management Branch (OPMD), Warrant Officer Division, and US Naval Test Pilot School (USNTPS), as well as the US Army Aviation Engineering Flight Activity (USAAEFA) and US Army Aviation Development Test Activity USAADTA), are included as board members. Only the applications of officers recommended by their respective branches or divisions are considered.

Where's it at?

Once selected, officers are sent TDY to the Pre-TPS at USAAEFA, Edwards AFB, CA, a subordinate activity of USA AVRADCOM. The eight-week orientation course cited in the previous article is designed to provide academic and flight refresher training.

The academic syllabus of the course includes algebra, trigonometry, calculus, statics, dynamics, differential equations, aerodynamics, aircraft performance/ handling qualities, control theory, and technical report writing.

The flight syllabus includes flight test technique instruction in a DeHavilland Dove, a UH-1, and an OV-1 MOHAWK, in addition to a jet orientation flight in a T-38. Tests are administered during each phase of training and successful completion of the orientation course is required prior to proceeding to the US Naval Test Pilot School at Patuxent River, MD.

Consisting of approximately 29 individuals each, USNTPS classes are 11 months long and convene twice a year in January and July. The course of instruction is composed of three curricula (Fixed Wing Flight Mechanics. Rotary Wing Flight Mechanics, and Airborne Systems) which are conducted concurrently.

Each curriculum involves academic studies, test flights, and test report preparation. Half of each working day is devoted to classroom instruction; the remainder of the day is occupied by flight activities, data preparation, report writing, and study. Pilots average approximately 15 flying hours per month, including test flight exercises, familiarization in new aircraft types, and instrument and night proficiency.

The course requires certain personal qualities, including initiative, adaptability, and the ability to work as part of an effective team. The course develops the individual's abilities to acquire test data, to determine test results, and to report the results in an objective manner.

And what about assignments?

The Army's training quota for USNTPS is nine per year; however, the number of officers trained is a function of requirements. Upon successful completion of the USNTPS course, graduates are assigned to USAAEFA or USAADTA, Ft. Rucker, AL, as engineering test pilots and can expect a three to four year utilization tour.

Following initial assignment at USAAEFA or USAADTA, test pilots are geared to the R&D field and are not limited to filling only test pilot positions.Their experience and skills represent a high dollar cost investment and require a closely monitored program of utilization and professional development.

R&D test pilots are qualified for and will be assigned to both R&D and aviation (SC 15, 71, or MOS 100 series) positions.

Additional information concerning the Aviation Engineering Test Pilot Training Program can be obtained through contacting the Aviation Management Branch, DAPC-OPA-V, AUTOVON 221-8156/0578; Commercial (202) 325-8156/0578.

An engineering test pilot job is not an easy one. It requires a high degree of aviation skill, a strong background in the physical sciences, and a desire to accomplish a meaningful task. The rewards are as great as the challenge, however. The opportunity to have a significant influence on the development and improvement of Army aircraft is a source of great satisfaction to each and every Army Aviation Engineering Test Pilot.

AAAA's S. California Chapter views STS-4 landing at Edwards

More than 500,000 people — and the President — were on hand July 4 when the Columbia landed at Edwards (top left). As in the previous three missions, USA Aviation Engineering Flight Activity (AEFA) provided helicopters for security missions and for national TV coverage of the landing. At left, MAJs Charles Adam and Don Underwood of AEFA pose in front of the video camera system used for the network TV coverage. The unit also hosted an estimated 1,500 spectators, including AEFA employees and their families, members of AAAA's Southern California Chapter, and two busloads of senior citizens at the landing.

The wrong stuff.

An ARNG aviator cites a problem

YOU are the president of an accident investigation board and are presented with the following information in relation to a helicopter accident in which a ground soldier was seriously injured.

A review of the five days of the pilot's life preceding the accident revealed the following:

SATURDAY: Awoke at 0530, had breakfast, drove 50 miles to the airfield, and prepared for departure. Pre-flighted, filed a flight plan, and waited for weather to clear. At 1430, the decision was made to cancel the flight. Not having his car, he had to make arrangements to get home because no arrangements had been made to stay overnight. Finally arrived home to 2300.

SUNDAY: Awoke at 0530, had breakfast, and returned the 50 miles to the airfield. Departed at 0830 and during a refueling stop, had soda and crackers for lunch. After a four-hour flight, landed and reported to his unit. Received a safety briefing and orientation flight of the training site. Pitched his pup tent and attended a briefing for the next days flights at 2030. Went to bed at 2330, but the area was infested with mosquitos and ants, making a good night's sleep impossible.

MONDAY: Awoke at 0530, packed up his tent, had a cold breakfast (kitchen not set up).Flew 3.8 hours and aborted mission because of rain. Returned to field site set up his wet tent after a meal of cold C-Rations. Because of training requirements, did not get to sleep until 2300.

TUESDAY: Awoke at 0530 in a pouring rain, pup tent leaked all night. Took down the tent and packed his gear. Had a wet, cold breakfast and flew 1.77 in marginal weather, airlifting troops into confined areas. Landed on a tree stump concealed in high grass, damaged landing light. Mission precluded his ability to get to mess tent, had no lunch. Had cold C-Rations for supper. Put his pup tent up, still wet, and finally got to sleep at 0130 Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY: Awoke at 0700, had normal breakfast, rolled up his pup tent and gear. Airlifted troops for 2 hours. On landing at dusk at field site at 1830 under marginal conditions, pilot failed to see a ground soldier who was struck by the tail rotor. Soldier seriously injured.

SYNOPSIS: Total pilot duty time, five days—62.3 hours. Total flight time—11.5 hours.

COMBAT CONDITIONS? No. The accident took place during the training cycle of an Army National Guard aviation unit during its annual Active Duty for Training of two weeks.

Now — as accident investigation

board president, decide who was at fault:

The Pilot?

He flew the aircraft with insufficient crew rest, and although he knew he was fatigued, he did not want to admit to his limitations.

The Company Commander?

Who, due to pressure, demanded that missions be flown, regardless of flight and personnel conditions. Commented that the mission came first, before eating or crew rest.

The Battalion Commander?

Demanded that pilots operate under field conditions due to pressure from above.

The Division Commander?

Insisted that his units really show how good they were to impress the evaluators.

The U.S. Army?

Placed unrealistic demands on the units to perform without sufficient training and briefings.

Your Decision?

Probably Option No. 1. Pilot Error!

What is it that causes commanders who preach safe flight, crew rest, and physical condition for 11½ months of the year and then for a two-week period, throw these requirements out the window in the name of training?

Could it be that dreaded "Green Disease," the disease that inhabits civilians who have normal jobs that do not demand life and death decisions, but who, on putting on the uniform with the rank that gives them the power of command, give orders that MUST be obeyed, regardless of common sense or need? They take people who also work normal hours in their civilian jobs, put them into uniform, and then expect superior military performances on a 24-hour day immediately!

Every safety bulletin produced emphasizes that pilots get a good night's sleep, eat substantial meals, do not fly fatigued, and keep emotionally fit. Why, then, are these concepts forgotten when the magical "Annual Training Duty" comes around?

KOREA—RATED SINCE 1966, LTC JAMES E. CLAY, RIGHT, CHIEF, PLANS & OPNS BR, ACOFS, J4, USFK, IS SHOWN RECEIVING HIS MASTER ARMY AVIATOR WINGS FROM COL JACK CHERRINGTON, ACOFS, J4, ALSO AN AVIATOR FOR 25 YEARS.

It's recognized that we train for combat. However, you cannot do it in one two-week period. All of us who have been in combat know that the first thing is to have troops make themselves as comfortable as possible to insure their effective use of equipment to accomplish the mission. Short periods of extreme conditions are always present, but every effort is made to maintain the physical strength and morale of the troops to help keep them as an effective fighting force.

The Regular Army does not use the outdated attitudes that still prevail in National Guard units. The Guard expects its aviation personnel to live and fight like infantrymen. There is something lacking in the makeup of the overzealous infantry commander when one looks at what he expects from the highly skilled personnel in his aviation units.

For example, he cannot hope to get alert, efficient and professional performances from personnel when they are mentally and physically fatigued. Yet when an infantryman gets fatigued and falls to the ground, it's only a few feet. He does not get hurt and hurts no one else. But when a mechanic is tired and forgets to tighten a bolt because the wind is whipping up the dust, or the pilot is behind his aircraft, due to fatigue, either situation could bring about one or more fatalities.

Should people in aviation units be treated as a special breed? You bet they should! Their lives — and those of the people they are transporting — depend on their reactions, judgment and professional skills.

How can the commander who disregards safety requirements justify the unnecessary death or serious injury of a soldier to his wife and family? What good will it do to place the responsibility for this death or injury on the shoulders of the pilot who obeyed the orders of his commander?

"Do everything PLUS!"

Looking back at the post-WWII period, the experience of the USAF led it to believe that the average ground commander did not have any conception of the mental and physical strain that comes from flying and maintaining aircraft where split-second decisions can make the difference between life and death. So they separated themselves from the ground units, enabling them to do their jobs in a professional and efficient manner.

It costs over $100,000 to train a pilot to fly an aircraft worth several million dollars. It makes no sense to expect him to be everything from an infantryman to the pilot of a sophisticated piece of equipment. An infantryman is not expected to attain the skills of an artilleryman, signalman, and an engineer. However, pilots and aircrewmen are expected to do everything PLUS.

Of primary concern to all commanders, especially to those in the Guard, should be that they complete their ADT, train in a Safe manner, and bring all their troops home. Sometimes their concept of why they are there at ADT overshadows the last statement.

A quote from Richard Bach is appropriate. "Flying is one of the few popular sports in which the penalty for a bad mistake is death."

FIRST CH-47D ACCEPTED

Government and Boeing Vertol can be proud," said General Stevens.

He then presented the keys and logbook of the first production CH-47D to two Army pilots, Major Albert F. Weinnig and Captain William R. Steele. Following this presentation, Captain Steele, along with fellow crew members, CW4 Jim Gripp and SFC Charles Lewis completed a short proficiency training flight.

A 14-year combat veteran

The first production CH-47D is currently at Patuxent River, MD, NAS where it is undergoing avionic demonstration testing. It will be assigned to the USAAVNC later this year for pilot training.

Before being ferried as an 'A' model to Boeing Vertol in Sept., 1980, to undergo modernization, the first production CH-47D's flight log indicated it had accumulated nearly 2,650 flight hours during its 14-year service career, of which approximately 1,800 flight hours were in combat support missions in Vietnam. The aircraft also served in Germany supporting NATO operations, and later with FORSCOM.

The May 20 delivery ceremony indicated this aircraft has a new lease on life through modernization so it will continue to serve its country when and where it is needed for another 20 years. ■

"Questions and answers"

To: AAAA National Office

I'm fairly new to Army Aviation and am currently working as an XO in an assault helicopter company. As part of my Chapter duties I'm responsible for keeping track of memberships in our professional ass'n, the AAAA, and also for getting newly-assigned members to join.

I'm often asked what AAAA is and why should a person join it. I've been told it's a lobbying organization for the interests of Army Aviation, but really know very little else. Could you please answer the following questions for me?

—Floyd T. Hoffman
CPT, TC
Clarksville, TN

Q. When and why was the AAAA organized?

A. The AAAA was organized in April 1957 for professional and social reasons. Using an existing magazine, Army Aviation, the founders initially sought to create an organization that would qualify Army Aviators for low-cost commercial group flight pay insurance which they could only obtain then through Air Force Ass'n membership. The AAAA later initiated a variety of national and chapter programs and the importance of the flight pay insurance benefit diminished.

Q. What type of things has AAAA lobbied for? What successes has it had?

A. The AAAA is not a lobbying organization in the sense of having fulltime staffers at work on the Hill; AUSA represents the Army and its aviation community on all Congressional matters. Three former Chiefs of Legislative Liaison (MGs William A. Becker, James M. Lee, and George S. Beatty, Jr.), each of whom has served three or more years on AAAA's Nat'l Board, confirm that OCLL with its 150-plus Army staff has a difficult time keeping up with its full list of Congressional responsibilities, and that it would be ludicrous for an Ass'n with limited (under $50,000) funds and one or two staffers to cover the lobbying scene, or to mislead its members by purporting to do so.

The AAAA works for its members interests in another way — by having its highly respected senior Board members discuss pertinent "aviation issues" informally with appropriate senior members of the DA staff. AAAA, through these members and the open pages of its endorsed magazine, can air any and all issues and still work within the Army family. Its long-term advocacy of flight pay equalization helped to change the Army's position on the subject.

Q. What is its annual budget and how is it used?

A. For the Ass'n FY ending 31 Dec 82, gross revenues were $147,000; expenses were $130,000. Contract administration and communications cost approx. $9.30 a member, leaving $5.70 a member for all other programs. AAAA had Dec 82 assets of $129,000, including $74,000 in investments.

Q. How many people does AAAA employ? What positions do they fill?

A. The Ass'n has no employees, payroll, benefits, per diem, rent, travel funds, or office space, contracting annually with Army Aviation Publications, Inc., a privately-owned firm, for the administration of all Ass'n programs. As directed by the Nat'l President and Executive Board, members of the contractor's staff assume specified management, accounting, record-keeping, and communications chores. An appointee, the Executive Vice President, represents the contractor at the National Board level.
